

MILAN EXCHANGE.

VOL. X.

MILAN, TENN., AUGUST 25, 1883.

NO. 26.

CHAPTER IV.

Merry is the laugh of the boys which echoes from the sides of the Great Southern Exposition at Louisville, now in the fourth week of its successful existence. From far and near have they come to see what can be seen—and there is a great deal to see! Some came with their parents, some came without; some came on their parents' money and others on their own. They had taken our advice to save up money to go to the Exposition. A good many boys of the present day soon learn the value of money, and, as a natural consequence, they learn how to take care of it, and when they spend it get value received. They came to Louisville cheap—because of the liberal excursion rates, they have found a pleasant place at which to stop, say Alexander's new Hotel, and light hearted as boys only can be—enliven the crowd at the Exposition with their ebullient laugh and boyish pranks. They see much to admire—they see many things new to them—they see a world of wonders to furnish the subject for many a fire-side talk in after years, and above all they won't soon forget how well they looked and felt dressed up in one of J. Winter & Co.'s suits, bought from that sterling establishment, corner of Third and Market Streets, Louisville, Ky. Most all well-dressed boys at the Exposition or on the street of Louisville have been fitted out at J. Winter & Co.'s, corner of Third and Market Streets, and they are walking, talking, living advertisement of J. Winter & Co., the Louisville manufacturers, who don't sell Eastern made goods—they would not touch them with a ten foot pole. As many of the readers of this sketch will take in the Great Southern Exposition at Louisville, and as many of them will bring their boys along—it will amply repay to visit the colossal establishment of J. Winter & Co., corner of Third and Market Streets, and take a stroll through the Boys' Clothing department, and you will speak of it afterwards as the biggest thing of the kind you ever saw—piles upon piles of clothing for boys of any size, shape, or nationality—from the cheapest to the finest, cut in all the latest shapes of the prevailing fashion. Overcoats of all styles and any size, in material and price to suit anybody—we carry an immense stock and our Boys' Department is complete in every detail; and everything is manufactured in Louisville, cut by Louisville artists, and made by Louisville tailors. The buttons stay on, the seams won't rip, the shape holds out, and the clothes wear well! If this is not an inducement to fit out your boy at J. Winter & Co.'s, corner of Third and Market Streets, Louisville, Ky., then let us know what more you expect. When you come to Louisville and you have not brought your boy, but wish to remember him by a token of affection, take him a suit of clothes bought from us. All we want to know is the age; by this thirty-nine cases out of fifty, we give a fit; should we, however, fail to do this we cheerfully refund the money.

SMALL CHANGE.

Somewhat warm.
A little cooler this morning.
There is a prospect for a fine crop of turnips.

The hickory-nut crop around here is very promising.

Watermelons are now about as cheap as Irish potatoes.

We are beginning to look out for the first open boll of cotton.

There were twenty-two conversions at a recent revival at Bradford.

Several wagon loads of very good peaches were sold here this week.

The Prentiss club has re-organized and will give us an entertainment soon.

Mr. W. C. Turner sent us some very fine sweet potatoes last Tuesday, for which we thank him.

Now is the time to lay in your winter coal and wood, while it is cheap and the roads good.

The evaporator is now kept busy running day and night. Much surplus fruit is being used up.

Our correspondents have all failed to come to time this week. Guess the weather is too hot for them.

Milan has four or five drummers on the road all the time. They travel for other cities, though.

The south-bound train on the I. C. road, due here about ten o'clock a. m. Thursday, was two hours late.

Tom Harrison does not complain of dull times. He finds his trade good all the time. He advertises continually.

Many of our citizens drive to the Thomas wells, especially on Sunday afternoons, to drink the fine mineral waters there.

Mike Collins, aged twenty-three years, died last Wednesday night. He will be sadly missed. He was an old family horse.

Any company of men who can play a game of base ball on as hot a day as was last Monday ought to make good soldiers—or farmers.

Crump, the jeweler, has presented the C. P. Church with a handsome silver communion set—a most appropriate gift, and one which will be appreciated.

If somebody will choke the engineer who toots his whistle in such an unearthly manner, he may draw on us for one year's subscription to the Exchange.

Mayo, Covington & Co. have hung out a new sign, marked "Texas Cheap Store." It was reported a short time since that they were going to Texas. Hence the sign.

We venture the assertion that the Exchange office has the most accommodating "devil" on record. His cognomen is James B. Horner, but the boys call him "Jim" for short.

A telegram from Prof. Langston informs us that he will be in Milan next Monday. He will then begin active preparations for the opening of school on the Monday following.

The camp-meeting at Cold Water, near McKenzies, was suddenly closed one th day of the storm. Too much cold water for a Methodist meeting, if they do believe in pouring and sprinkling.

Jack Lewis and a two-year-old mule gave a fine exhibition Thursday evening—the former in skillful riding while the latter exhibited genuine mule cussedness. Jack was on top part of the time.

Mr. W. C. Turner's residence came near being destroyed by fire last Saturday afternoon. A spark fell on the kitchen roof and burned a hole in it before it was discovered. Prompt work saved it, though.

A new continued story will begin in the Exchange shortly, and it will be very interesting. Now is a good time to subscribe.

It strikes us that it would pay some of our farmers to bale their hay for market. It grows here luxuriantly; yet thousands of bales are shipped right by us to the south, and much of it is consumed in Milan, too.

Trenton Globe: A negro girl living in the Fourth district died suddenly last week from eating peaches.

John McDearmon, colored, living near Brazil, was fooling with a gun the other day, when it went off and killed his wife.

There are not so many white loafers around town as at this time last year, but there are lots of colored ones. It is a common sight to see a number of negro men playing marbles and baseball, when they ought to be at work. This ought not to be.

Mr. Deason, of the county warrant committee, will be in Milan next Wednesday for the purpose of registering warrants. Parties holding warrants should report to him. He thus saves them the trouble and expense of a trip to Trenton. Remember the day—next Wednesday.

The C. A. Hill base ball club, of Trenton, and the W. E. Turners of Milan, played their third game here last Monday, when the Hills got away with our boys in a score of 31 to 13. The Turners say they were out of practice—had been fox-hunting too much.

Our fellow citizens A. G. McDearmon, R. Z. Taylor, J. I. Wells and A. W. Raines have been appointed by Gov. Bate as Commissioners to represent Gibson county in the Louisville and Boston Expositions. Call on them at once for any information desired in this line.—Trenton Globe.

The Soldiers' reunion, it will be remembered, takes place next Thursday, when a big crowd will be present, and speeches will be made by prominent gentlemen. The barbecue has been abandoned and a basket dinner decided on. Let everybody carry his basket and enjoy a day with old comrades.

Mr. Jack Fields was tried before Esquires Heathcock and Meals this week, charged with interfering with road overseer Williams while on duty. A number of witnesses were examined and much interest manifested, but the State failed to make a case and the defendant was discharged.

The case of the State vs. L. C. Baker, charged with assault and attempt to commit murder in the second degree, was tried in the Trenton circuit court this week, and the defendant found guilty and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. A motion for a new trial was argued yesterday, with what result we have not heard.

Protracted meetings are in progress at the Baptist church here, at Salem, one mile north of town, and at Friendship, three miles south. A meeting will also begin at the Methodist church here Sunday night, on the occasion of the fourth quarterly meeting. With this general move all along the line, the devil ought to be routed.

In response to a hint in this paper last week, our generous friend, Henry Dickinson, has given us a start in chickens. He presented us with a pair of his pure-blooded Plymouth Rocks, the finest breed in the country. He has frequent orders for them from a distance, and can hardly supply the demand. We appreciate the gift very highly.

PERSONAL.

Miss Mattie Seay is visiting relatives in Brownsville.

Mr. Tom Bennett, of Brownsville, was in the city on Monday.

Jimmy Jones has returned to town, greatly improved in health.

Miss Annie Senter, of Montezuma, is visiting Mr. House's family.

Mr. Jim Clark has returned to town, after several weeks' absence.

Mr. W. E. Reeves and wife have returned from a visit to Louisville.

Prof. Daniel is teaching a band in Missouri, but will return here shortly.

Miss Menia Lattimore, of Nashville, is the guest of Mrs. Dr. Conley.

Miss Lizzie Blanks, of Trezevant, is visiting the family of Mr. W. W. Blanks.

Miss Delia Blankinship, of Alamo, is visiting the family of Mr. J. J. Coulter.

Mr. Joe G. Hall, editor of the Arlington Leader, spent last Sunday in Milan.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Y. Moore, of McKenzie, are visiting relatives here this week.

Mr. Sam Harris has returned from an extended trip in Arkansas, Missouri and Kansas.

Mr. Chas. Kestnar returned last Wednesday from an extended visit to central Ohio.

Miss Cora Williams, one of Humboldt's charmingest young ladies, visited friends here last Sunday and Monday.

E. Jay Swanson, the popular and efficient secretary of the great natural doctor, has been circulating among his many friends here this week.

Mr. Dick Davis went to the markets this week to buy a fall stock for A. Jordan, and will lay in a large line of the most fashionable goods.

Miss Emma Hutcherson of Milan and Miss Minnie Caldwell of the 21st district are visiting Misses Annie and Lizzie Anderson of this city.—Paris Post.

Dr. A. A. Davidson attended the State Prohibition Convention in Nashville this week. He will remain in Middle Tennessee a week or two, visiting relatives.

Mr. James Dunn and wife, of Russellville, Ky., visited Mr. Cantwell's family this week, en route to Arkansas. Mrs. Dunn is remembered by many friends here as Miss Carrie Barton.

Mr. B. H. Blankinship, of Hazen, Ark., has been visiting relatives here the past two weeks. He looks like they had been feeding him well. He renewed his policy with the Exchange while here.

Dr. Kelsay is in town, busy, as usual. We learn that he had over three hundred patients in Paris this week, so many that he could hardly attend them all. He has certainly created a great sensation throughout this section, and many wonderful cures are reported.
